Naval Control of The Pacific Offered America

SOVIET AGREES TO AWARD TWO BASES IN EXCHANGE FOR TRADE RELATIONS

Washington D. Vanderlip An-

Bases Could be Made Among

LONDON, June 10.—Two naval bases on the Siberian coast, which it is declared would give the United States complete control of the Pacific coast, have been offered in perpetuity to America by the Moscow Soviet government, on condition that the United States opens full commercial relations with Soviet Russia.

This important announcement was revealed today by Washington D. Vanderlip, of Los Angeles, Cal., head of the American syndicate which has secured rich commercial concessions in Russia. Mr. Vanderlip has just returned from Russia, where the final negotiations were completed.

The agreement between Mr. Vanderlip and the Moscow government, in which the Soviet offers the two naval bases to America, is already in the hands of Senator Lodge at Washington.

One of the harbors is at Avatcha bay on the southeastern coast of Kamahatka. The other is near Vladivostok. Mr. Vanderlip pointed out that a powerful airplane base could be constructed at the Southern port, which is only about three hours from the Japanese coast by air.

The full details of the offer were set forth by Mr. Vanderlip for the International News Service in the following statement:

"We have obtained from the present Russian government, in connection with the concession of 40,000 square miles a concession for two naval bases on the Russian Pacific coast to be held in perpetuity by the United States. One is at Avatcha bay. It is a deep water harbor sufficiently large to float the biggest navy in the world. The harbor is land locked with cliffs. The natural protections make it stronger even than Gibraltar. We could make it the strongest naval base in the world. The

Birmingham Business Building Can Not Be Seized Under Prohibition Law

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-
Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—The four story business building in the business center of Birmingham occupied by the Colias Confectionary Company cannot be confiscated by the state and sold because a whiskey-manufacturing plant was found in it under a decision of the Supreme court, Thursday which affirmed the decision of Judge Hugh A. Look of the Jefferson circuit court.

When the lower court held that Mrs. Penelope Jobeles, owner of the building, had not received actual or constructive notice that her property was being used for the manufacture of liquor in violation of the bone dry law of 1919, the state appealed to the Supreme court. In an opinion written by Mr. Chief Justice Anderson, the Supreme court sustained the decision and pointed out that no evidence was offered to show that the owner had received either actual or constructive notice of the illegal use of the property and that there could be no condemnation in the absence of evidence to that effect.

This case has been one of the most interesting brought under the condemnation sections of the bone-dry

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Little hope for the immediate relief of the drought conditions in Georgia and Alabama is held out by C. L. Mitchell, forecaster of the weather bureau, today.

According to Mitchell generally fair weather will prevail in the South Atlantic states, although local thunder showers may afford some relief in the east gulf states. Generally fair weather for the next 24 hours is predicted for Georgia, while local thunder showers are probable in Alabama.

ALLEGED BANDIT ARRESTED FRIDAY NEAR HAMILTON

(International News Service)
HAMILTON, ALA., June 10.—Ralph Palmer, said to have been positively identified as one of the two bandits, who yesterday afternoon held up the assistant cashier of the Marion County banking company and escaped with over $2,000, was arrested this morning.

None of the money was recovered with the arrest of Palmer, who was taken into custody at his home about 5 miles north of Hamilton. Officials believe they know who the other robber was and expect his arrest today. It is understood the second man is a relative of Palmer and is named Russ Palmer.

Belief is expressed that the money will be recovered when the second man is arrested.

VALIDITY OF ACT CREATING OFFICE OF TAX ADJUSTER FOUGHT IN COURT

Marengo County Case Will Test
the New Tax Machinery

REVENUE MEASURE IS ATTACKED BY ATTORNEY

Declared to Violate Sections of State and Federal Constitutions

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-
Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—Validity of the sections of the general revenue act of 1919 creating the office of county tax adjuster for all counties except Jefferson and the board of tax adjusters in Jefferson was attacked in the Supreme court when the case of Besie C. Minge versus George M. Smith, tax collector of Marengo county, was submitted.

Attorneys for Mrs. Minge contend that the sections violate the constitutions of the United States and the state of Alabama. One argument was that certain sections provide for the compensation of tax adjusters in a manner which provides for an increase in salaries during their terms and that this is a violation of the constitution. The brief set forth the fact that compensation is based on tax assessments and that in Marengo County the tax adjuster received eighteen hundred dollars last year and is being paid twenty-one hundred dollars this year. The constitution says the income of an officer shall not be increased during his term.

Another argument was that persons are deprived of their property without notice. It was admitted that sections of the revenue act require tax adjusters must give notice of proposed increases, but that another provides that any acts of the tax adjuster shall not be invalidated because he did not comply with the express provisions of the law, it being contended that the second provision nullified the purpose of the first.

Still a third argument is that the revenue act violates the constitution because it provides for a tax of more than sixty-five one-hundredths of one per cent. It is contended that as the law provides that assessments shall stand for two years and that property may decrease greatly between the two years, the tax for the second year on the valuation made the first year will be greater than the amount permitted by the constitution.

John H. Bankhead of Jasper and George P. Parnum of Faunsdale prepared the brief in support of the appeal. The Marengo circuit court sustained demurrors of the state and Mrs. Minge appealed. She asked for an injunction preventing the tax collector from selling her property for taxes which had been assessed by the tax adjuster at an amount greater than the reasonable cash value, according to her contention.

Sims Defiant Toward Navy He Avers Again

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 10.—Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, U. S. N., today virtually defied the American navy department to "muzzle" him.

The Admiral, who has been called upon by Secretary of the Navy Denby at Washington to explain his sensational "Jackass" speech on Tuesday, made another public address at a luncheon this afternoon at which he announced he intends to keep on saying what he thinks.

Admiral Sims was the guest of the American Luncheon club. "I have attempted upon all occasions to say what I wanted to say. I have always told the truth as I understand it. I am afraid I told what I believe the truth the other day," said the Admiral today.

MEXICO REFUSES TO ACCEPT COUPLE OF U. S. DEMANDS

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, June 10.—Mexico refuses to accept clauses Numbers 2 and 3 of the American state department's conditions for Mexican recognition because their call for revision of Article 27 of the Mexican constitution it was learned from unofficial sources today.

The Mexican government, it was said, would refuse to accept any clause which interferes with any right of Mexico to make her own laws. It was pointed out, however, that Mexico will give assurance to Washington that no law shall be retroactive.

The suggestion in the memorandum forwarded by Secretary of State Hughes that Mexico appoint a commission to study and arrange claims for damages incurred in past revolutions has been accepted by President Obregon.

The President will name the commission in the next few days. The idea had been previously advanced here during the administration of President Carranza, but was never put into effect.

BRIEF SUPPORTS THE POLL EXEMPTION

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-
Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—Contending that the constitutional amendment permitting soldiers and sailors to participate in Alabama elections without the payment of a poll tax was properly submitted to the voters, but if not the time for attacking its validity has passed, Ray Rushton and Marion Rushton of Montgomery. Senator R. B. Evans, of Greensboro and Matt H. Murphy of Birmingham today filed with the Supreme court a brief supplementary to that filed by Orr and Kilcrease of Marshall county.

The supplemental brief was prepared in the interest of thousands of ex-service men who have participated in recent elections, but who will be disfranchised and ever subjected to punishment for a criminal offense if the constitutional amendment is held to be invalid. The attack on the validity of the amendment was made by W. L. Fox who seeks to oust A. B. Hooper, Jr., from the position of jury commissioner of Marshall county because he did not pay a poll tax.

CRADDOCK HERE

When the Twins went to Russellville, they left Craddock behind. Craddock is resting in an effort to recover from the effects of a "charley-horse."

LOCAL TEAM AGAIN LEADS A-T CIRCUIT

(By Long Distance to The Daily)

SHEFFIELD, ALA., June 10.—Albany-Decatur went back to the lead of the Alabama-Tennessee league this afternoon as a result of the decision of directors of the league, in session here, throwing out the game played in Sheffield last Friday between the Triplets and Twins and won by the former.

Manager McDuff, of Albany-Decatur, protested the game on the grounds that the Tri-City management declined to permit the use of Umpire R. L. Steadman, after he had been ordered here to officiate together with Umpire Clark during the Friday and Saturday games. Notice of the protest was made before the game started and the league authorities ordered that it be played over again. The contest will be staged here in a double bill when the Twins make their next appearance in Sheffield. The league officials also threw out the game protested by Russellville several weeks ago when Umpire Clark and Manager Newton came to blows, resulting in the barring of the latter from the league. The two clubs also were instructed to play that contest over.

Both of the games had been carried in the win column for Sheffield and deducting the two games and one from the loss column of the Twins shows the latter leading by half a game. The league instructed the management of the two clubs to split 50-50 the gate receipts for the Friday game. Under the decision of the league this afternoon, the following is the revised and correct standing of the clubs:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Albany-Decatur	14	7	.666
Sheffield	13	7	.650
Russellville	8	11	.420

A jury was selected Thursday afternoon and the case got well under way. The state has gone well into its case and probably will complete its side of the case today.

An immense crowd again was on hand this morning when court convened and court officers experienced difficulty in maintaining order.

Convicted Slayer of Dry Raiders is Given Another Trial by High Court

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-
Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—Northern Lakey, convicted of the murder of James B. Ramsey, deputy sheriff in charge of prohibition enforcement, and sentenced to forty years in prison by a jury in the Clay county circuit court, was given another trial by the Supreme court Thursday because of errors in questioning witnesses which were permitted by the trial court.

It was charged by the state, that Lakey killed Ramsey when he and other prohibition enforcement officers were searching his barn in an effort to find liquor. Lakey contended that the officers appeared without search warrants and attempted to enter upon his property without the warrants although he demanded their production and that they therefore became trespassers.

The court reversed the judgment of the Blount circuit court in awarding William F. Maynor a judgment for one thousand dollars against the Woodmen of the World on the ground that Eldridge W. Maynor, who died in Mosely's finger injured in the first game of the Sheffield series here last week, apparently has not entirely healed and "Mose" was nicked for 17 safeties yesterday at Russellville when the Ore Diggers won from the Twins on the long end of an 8 to 5 score.

Nicholson, who relieved King here Wednesday and stopped the Twin rally, was on the firing line for Russellville yesterday and held the McDuff batting array to six scattered singles. Mosely, now the leading hitter on the club, continued to swat the ball, getting two out of four.

The absence of Craddock again was felt by the locals necessitating another shift of the line-up, Eaks taking short and Russell going to first. Eaks was accredited with one error yesterday, while Russell escaped. Ben handled eleven chances without mishap. Eaks and McDuff continued their

Controversy On In Air Service

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 10.—A controversy which threatens to rip the air service is on today as a result of the demand of the chief of the air service that Brigadier William Mitchell, the first assistant, be relieved of his duties.

So serious is the row regarded that Secretary of War Weeks has assumed personal charge of the inquiry to ascertain the causes of the action, and the least that is expected to result is a general shake up and a realignment of personnel.

The row has been brewing for months. Back of it is the long fought controversy over whether the air service shall be directed by flying officers or by officers of other arms, infantry, cavalry or artillery who may not be familiar with flying conditions.

WILSON'S IDEAS WILL NOT DOWN,
ALTHOUGH STILL UNACCEPTED

Late dispatches from Paris, signed by Col. E. M. House, bring the news that a movement is on in Germany, to encourage England and the United States to carry out a certain proposal advocated by former president Wilson, namely that these nations guarantee France against another German attack, similar to the one of 1914.

The obvious reason why far sighted Germans would wish such a guarantee, is that once France is assured that she will be allowed to live in peace, she will remove her iron hand from the throat of Germany, and also cease her aggressive support of the Poles against the Germans. As long as France has no guarantee of right treatment from her eastern neighbors, they argue she will naturally do all in her power to hinder and defeat the recovery of the German nation, just as individuals are not anxious to see those prosper greatly, whom they regard as hostile to their best interests.

The Germans who are advocating the proposed guarantee evidently do not believe Germany will ever make another unprovoked attack on France, so they feel their nation has nothing to lose by such an arrangement, but a very great deal to gain in lessened hostile pressure from France and all nations friendly to her. The suggestion brings squarely before the public mind of the world once again, the proposal of President Wilson of a treaty signed by this nation, England and France, guaranteeing immunity to France from German militarism. It will be recalled that the defeat of the candidates for office favored by Mr. Wilson, has been construed as a disapproval by America of such an agreement.

It is doubtful however, in view of the fact that few if any good Americans were opposed to American intervention in 1917, if this nation at heart is against such a guarantee. Just as this country flew to arms in 1917, so it would do the same thing under similar circumstances. Why then would there be any objection, to making assurance doubly sure against a new war by announcing in advance against an aggressive military campaign by the Germans? Just as a live league against war, would have prevented the recent world war, had it been in existence in 1914, so a solemn pledge by this country to defeat any future war of aggression, would have a very sobering effect on Germany or any other nation inclined to be too war like. It was just this line of reasoning, that led Mr. Wilson and the makers of the Versailles treaty declare for the league of nations and to favor an American-British treaty for the protection of France. Will such reasoning have force in this country at this time or at any early date? It all depends. If the people can divorce themselves from demagoguery and self seeking, long enough to see the advantages of such prior agreements as preventatives of war, the Wilsonian ideas may again become popular. If little Americanism, can be given up for a foreign policy of wisdom and foresight, if the time ever comes when men will not be deprived of public office, the moment they advocate suitable international understandings, there will be a chance and a good chance, for far-sighted men, whether German, English, French or American, to go about the task of preventing war in an intelligent and business like manner. But as matters now stand, if a move should be made in the United States Senate to renew the Anglo-French-American treaty as advocated by Mr. Wilson, there would doubtless develop the same opposition to it as sprang up against the ratification of the league of nations covenant. The people's representatives at Washington seem determined never to use the power and prestige of this country for the improvement of international relations, and the betterment of humanity the world over.

CONDITIONS FOR BUSINESS
ARE SOUND AT THE CORE

A prominent writer on financial questions, has been finding fault with some parts of the country, for taking things fair and easy, and insisting that greater concern should be felt for the future of business. The truth of the matter is, since business conditions are essentially sound and safe in America, there need be no alarm for the future. Because of post-war conditions, the foreign markets have been unable to absorb as many manufactured products, and food products, as would have been the case had there been no war. But the important thing is, all countries need and desire as many goods as they ever did, and this country has the goods. So the only conclusion to be reached is that since we have the wealth we are sure to realize on it. America is in the position to set the prices and business conditions of the future, and unless the desire of other nations for our valuable products absolutely ceases, an unthinkable situation—it cannot be long before they will fix some way to reestablish trading relations.

The position taken by the writer referred to, is the same one assumed by David Harum in the well known book by that name—when he said that a reasonable amount of fleas was good for a dog, meaning of course that the flea activities on the dog, would cause the canine to get busy and stay so. The spur of necessity is a good thing and a rough sea makes a skillful sailor but there is no occasion for us to look with too much concern on the future of business, for its future is assured. There is no lasting or serious reason for deep concern as to the future of business. The world is seen to be on the road to recovery, a condition no one will deny, so we cannot but look for better business conditions as the days and weeks pass.

A Republican paper, The Philadelphia Enquirer says of George Harvey's infamous speech: George Harvey "deliberately and wickedly misrepresented his country." George being but "a ranter, a dealer in choice billingsgate and a man loaded with hatred," who "unless he is forbidden to talk in public on international questions is certain to bring discredit on the Harding administration."

If George could have only seen himself years ago as Woodrow Wilson saw him, he might have been saved from many a foolish blunder.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS REFUSE TO BOW TO LENINE'S YOKE

In Soviet Russia events rapidly are bringing a clash between the peasantry and the Bolsheviks which probably will be a greater revolution than those that have gone before in that unhappy country. Lenin and Trotsky have never been able to reconcile the great peasant population of Russia with their ideas of an idealistic government. The Russian peasant may be dense in his ignorance of many things but as a whole he is not a fool. He remembers that the yoke of the Czar often was galling, but he also remembers that in the days of the Czar he always had a market for his grain and could get enough for it to provide his family with necessities. He is not sorry the Czar's rule has ended, for he knows, even in his ignorance, that he never did get a fair deal under the monarchy, but he is not willing to join the Soviet and take his chances with the radical Bolsheviks.

A speech recently made by Lenin is a straw showing the way the wind is blowing in Soviet Russia. The occasion was the tenth congress of the Bolshevik party, the speech being reported in the official Bolshevik press.

Lenin frankly admitted that the relations between the Soviet government and the Russian peasantry "are not what we had believed them to be." He added that the peasants are not satisfied; that they do not care for the economic reforms which the Soviets have offered them and that the refusal of the peasants to subscribe to the Bolshevik creed was the greatest peril which the Soviet government faced.

That it is a very great peril indeed is obvious when one considers that the peasantry makes up the great bulk of the Russian population; estimated at 85 per cent.

What Lenin and his followers have been and are still trying to do is to impose upon the great mass of the Russian people a form of government which they detest and refuse to accept, beyond the point that they are forced to, to save their hides.

Director Sack of the U. S. Russian Information Bureau points out in a recent statement that the peasantry in the main factor in the struggle against bolshevism at present. He suggests the impossibility of concessions to the peasants that will bring them into line with the Bolsheviks, because the things that the peasants demand strike at the very heart of the Bolshevik theories.

The granting of such concessions would spell the doom of bolshevism and the Bolsheviks are not inclined to commit suicide.

The answer, according to Sack, is that bolshevism will be destroyed by the growing anti-Bolshevik movements among the Russian peasants, which are already expressing themselves in armed uprisings here and there and will soon culminate in a general revolution.

The fact that Sack is an anti-Bolshevik propagandist seems to be more than balanced by the fact that his prophecy is a logical sequence to the Lenin speech.—Anniston Star.

JUST BE NEIGHBORLY

"Just to be neighborly." That means so much more than we think sometimes. When everything you cook tastes flat, stale and unprofitable, when you seem to be serving the same dishes over and over again, until you wonder that the family does not howl with disgust. When you are huddled in a chair, trying to think of a dessert that will appeal to you, then there is a knock at the back door, and a cheery call: "I just baked a pie, and it is so good, and John doesn't like pie unless they are just baked, so I thought I would bring it over to you and let you try it. It's one half, but if you don't have company it will just do, and you won't have to bother with your dessert. I thought you looked rather tired this noon, and besides I wanted to bring you something that was nearly as good as those hot biscuits you brought over the other day. I made it according to that new recipe I told you about, and I am anxious to see whether you think it is better"—and so on. Sounds rather flighty and inconsequential, you say? Not at all, not at all, not in the least. It isn't that the pie is going to be unusually good, although it is sure to be that. It is just that somebody thought to be kind; that somebody noticed that you were tired, and that somebody was glad to share a "housewife" secret with you. There are always a lot more housekeeping affairs discussed in the mornings than people (meaning men) generally suppose.

A conference that is put down to the credit of gossip usually is called to decide whether a fruit salad will be better to serve than a heavier one with the roast. And if my lady watches you with dancing eyes some night when you cautiously taste a new dish, after you have surveyed it with dish suspicion, and giggles with pleasure when you pronounce it very good indeed, then you may know that she is satisfied with her success.

No, all housewives do not gossip in the morning—merely hold councils of war, and plan new conquests.—Hartselle Enterprise.

The best way to safeguard the future generation, is to arrange so that said generation will take care of itself. And sufficient school equipment is one way to do it.

One of the really big questions for everybody, "Am I lining up, so as to become an asset or a liability?"

The men of Pueblo, Col., have been ordered to work. To some of them this new turn of affairs, will doubtless appear a greater calamity than the recent flood.

MEMORY OF DEAD
JUDGE IS HONORED

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—Memorial services for Judge Samuel D. Weakley of Birmingham, former chief justice of the Alabama Supreme court, were held in the Supreme court Thursday afternoon, resolutions of respect and honor for Judge Weakley were ordered spread upon the minutes of the court and after the service had been concluded the court recessed until June 14 as a further mark of respect.

Judge Weakley served only a few months on the Supreme court but during this time he prepared opinions in several cases which have been commented upon by judicial tribunals far and wide. After he retired from the bench he returned to the practice of law and during his practice he drafted prohibition statutes which still are in the books of many states. He drafted the state bond-dry law which was enacted in 1919.

In presenting to the Supreme court the resolutions adopted by the Jefferson County Bar Association, Harwell G. Davis, attorney-general, said "any one familiar with the history of Alabama must acknowledge that his was a life that has left a marked impress for better upon the social, judicial and political history of this state." Responding for the court, Chief Justice John C. Anderson said "although his service upon this court was brief, his opinions are clear cut and indicate that he was not only an accomplished lawyer, but was blessed with a fortunate method of judicial expression. As a judge he was upright, able and fearless; as a lawyer, he was capable and alert; as a citizen, he was a patriot and Christian, and as a friend, he was loyal and kind."

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

PASS IT ALONG

HEAR D a story the other day," he said, and then he related a clean, wholesome anecdote, which is said to have originated with the late Champ Clark.

He was passing along a little of the joy of life. He was distributing smiles.

There is a manufacturing establishment in New England, not a big enterprise. It is a sort of family affair in which all the workmen and their wives and sweethearts have a more than wage-employee interest.

The principal reason is that the man who started it decided that he was going to pass along the joy of the success, if it was a success, and he has continued to do so from the day the little factory opened.

If a particularly big order comes in he writes a little bulletin about it and gives it to the superintendent, and at the bottom of the slip of paper are always the words "Pass It Along."

That means that everybody in the factory knows the good news almost as soon as the owner does.

And one year when the profits showed larger than usual he had the bookkeeper draw up a little statement of the year's surplus.

When it was in his hands he took his pen and dividing the total by two he drew a ring around the quotient and a line from the ring led to the words "Pass It Along," which meant that half of all the profits was divided among the workmen.

The game of "Pass It Along" is a great game. So many can play at it. It needn't take any money to start it and none to keep it going.

All it requires is a desire to make people happy and a determination to make the desire a working reality.

It is a strange thing that we seem more willing always to spread the unpleasant news than the pleasant.

The rumor that Jack has lost his job gets twice as prompt circulation as the fact that Jill has received a promotion. I wonder why?

We can pass along so many helpful things. Encouragement. Enthusiasm. Appreciation. Sympathy. Everyone of them without a penny of cost, but so full of the profit of satisfaction, if we do it with a generous spirit.

The parable of the two debtors has always seemed to me one of the most vivid of the illustrations by which Jesus taught his great truths. You will find the story in the latter part of the eighteenth chapter of St. Matthew.

The trouble with the servant of the king was that he did not pass along to the man who owed him the charitable treatment which his master had shown in forgiving him the debt he owed.

If you have something good, something helpful, something that will make another happier pass it along. It is a profitable proceeding.

THE WOODS
By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

JUNE.

I KNEW you were coming, June, I knew that you were coming! Among the alders by the stream I heard a partridge drumming; I heard a partridge drumming, June, a welcome with his wings.

And felt a softness in the air half Summer's and half Spring's.

I knew that you were nearing, June, I knew that you were nearing—I saw it in the bursting buds of roses in the clearing; The roses in the clearing, June, were blushing pink and red.

For they had heard upon the hills the echo of your tread.

I knew that you were coming, June, I knew that you were coming. For every warbler in the woods a song of joy was humming.

I know that you are here, June, I know that you are here— The fairy month, the merry month, the laughter of the year.

Limitations.

"Have you given attention to the recent great astronomical discoveries?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but I'm not mentioning them in my speeches. My constituents have an idea that I ought to look out for my own little neck instead of letting my mind wander out through the realms of space."

Chevrolet Makes

SECOND CHEVROLET OWNED BY

WRITER OF LETTER

Malone Coal, Grain & Motor Co., Albany, Ala.

Gentlemen:—

Feel sure you would like to know something of the trip made through Georgia, Alabama and Florida in the Chevrolet car purchased from you.

I left here September 13th and covered a distance of seventeen hundred and eleven miles in the 490 Chevrolet purchased from you on January 3rd.

I left here with my crank case filled with oil—five quarts. I made the entire trip by adding one quart to this. The gasoline record on this trip averaged twenty miles to the gallon.

In addition to the above, during the trip I only had one puncture, and practically no repairs.

I am well pleased with the record. If at any time I can be of service to you, it will be a pleasure.

Very truly yours,

O. C. PARKER.

Dainty

THE very fine baking it produces isn't the only reason why so many experienced hostesses use nothing but Valier's Dainty Flour. Dainty is economical.

It costs more to buy than ordinary flour but it costs less to use. Valier's Dainty Flour is milled from nothing but carefully selected soft winter wheat—and only the white centers of that. It requires less shortening.

Moreover, Dainty is dependable as the day is long. You won't waste it in needless costly failures. Its quality never varies. Try a sack—your husband will be delighted with the fine baking it produces. And when he finds that Dainty is economical to boot—well—he'll take off his hat to your judgment.

THE PLYMOUTH ROCK

WHEN the Pilgrim Fathers landed from the Mayflower at Plymouth, Massachusetts, they stepped out upon a boulder which has become famous as the Plymouth Rock.

This rock is said to weigh seven tons, possess a greenish hue, to be very hard and its surface capable of taking a high polish. Oval in shape and having a flat top, it offered a made-to-order landing place for the forefathers. Scientists declare that it was undoubtedly carried by a glacier from some strange and distant land.

Like most movable things of peculiar historic value, a loving public has been wont to disturb this valued relic and change its location. In 1774, while plans were under way to move the rock to the town square, it was discovered that the action of the elements had separated the upper and lower portions. Nevertheless, the top portion was moved. In 1834-40 years later—it was again moved, this time to a location in front of Pilgrim Hall and inclosed with an iron fence. Here it remained for forty-six years. Then it was decided that the rock should be returned to its original location. Accordingly, after a separation of more than one hundred years, the upper portion of the rock was carefully placed over the lower portion, where it now reposes under an ornate canopy.

Here, this treasured shrine, to which come visitors from every clime, shall undoubtedly remain for all time, looking much the same as when its side was first grazed by the good ship Mayflower.

Call of the Wild Goose.

"Honk" is one of the many words of imitative origin, and is applied to the cry of the wild goose. The word appears in 1834 in "Walden, or Life in the Woods," by Henry David Thoreau, the distinguished American naturalist, and later is used by Oliver Wendell Holmes. "As the air grows colder, the long wedges of geese fly in advance, and 'honking' as they fly, are seen high up in the heavens," and more recently by Theodore Roosevelt in his "Hunting Trips."

Milady Smoked Long Ago.

Smoking among women started when Sir Walter Raleigh offered the "divine weed" to Queen Elizabeth, but he almost paid the penalty with his life. So very sick did the few whiffs of tobacco make the royal lady that courtiers whispered Master Raleigh had poisoned her, and dark looks were his portion. Her highness recovered, however, and took a truly Elizabethan revenge by making the countess of Nottingham and all her maids smoke out a whole pipe among them.

OUT OF TOWN SOCIETY.

Miss Sallie B. Malone and Mrs. Nelson Cartwright were joint hostesses at a meeting of the Saturday afternoon bridge club. The attractive Malone home was the scene of the charming hospitality. Irish Potatoes Net Planters Cash

AUBURN, June 10.—The sale of new Irish potatoes in Alabama made a nice start last week and the reports so far indicate that the prices received were satisfactory.

County Agent L. A. Edmonson of Montgomery County reports the sale of two cars by the Montgomery County Farm Bureau on Friday and Saturday and that the No. 1 white potatoes brought $1.85 per 100 pounds f. o. b. Montgomery while to No. 1 Triumphs brought $2.25 per 100 pounds f. o. b. Montgomery. The Montgomery farmers now have several carloads of potatoes ready for sale and with Mr. Edmonson and the Farm Bureau in charge they expect to carefully grade and sack them in good sacks so as to demand the best market price.

From Escambia County H. H. Williamson reports the first co-operative sale of Irish potatoes under the new county organization of farmers and truckers and that these potatoes were all carefully graded and properly loaded. The shipment was made on consignment and to date the returns have not been received.

In addition to the production of eating potatoes L. W. Johnston of Cullman County is looking for a market for 1,500 bushels of seed potatoes while J. D. Wood of Franklin County reports that in the last ten days he has delivered 300,000 sweet potato plants to the farmers of his county which is going stronger than ever before for sweet potatoes this year.

A Dog's Life.

A "snjo" manufacturer of Southwark, England, was fined for cruelty to a dog by keeping it on a chain. He was said to have admitted that the animal had been chained for 10 years, and had been out only once during that period. Afterward it was found to be dying and was destroyed with the owner's consent. The magistrate described the offense as sentencing a dog to canine penal servitude.

Oat Crop Larger in State This Year

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 10.—Alabama's oat crop this year should be 9,140,000 bushels compared with 5,551,000 last year, according to a preliminary estimate of the state co-operative crop reporting service based on the condition of the crop this year. The condition on June 1 was found to be 83 per cent of normal, but that has been an increase in acreage of about twenty-five per cent which accounts for the great increase in the estimated yield. The reports indicate the total acreage in oats this year to be 457,000. The estimate is only of the oats sown for grain and feed and not for those which will be cut as hay. An estimate on the latter will be made July 1. The great increase is accredited to the cut in the cotton acreage and the desire of farmers to grow food and feed crops.

Wheat's condition was given as 83 per cent on June 1, indicating a yield of eleven bushels to the acre compared with 9.6 last year. The growing condition of other crops was given at follows:

Hay 80, clover 85, alfalfa 80, watermelons 76, peas 82, beans 85, apples 56, peaches 62, pears 59, blackberries 87, pastures 85, cantaloupes 76, cabbages 89, onions 90.

The season has not been favorable to crop growth this year, according to F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, who said the first of the spring was cold and the last three weeks deficient in rainfall.

REVIVAL BEGINS SUNDAY JUNE 12

The First Baptist church of Albany will begin a revival on Sunday June 12 and probably continue two weeks. The church has been put in order and arrangements perfected and much interest has been taken in the coming of Rev. J. O. Williams of Athens who will preach at the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Services will be held each day at 10:30 and 7:30 o'clock, the pastor Rev. R. F. Stuckey being in charge. The date was postponed until above time.

The Dog as Human Food.

The dog forms an important article of food among many nations. In China, the Society Islands, etc., young puppies are considered a great delicacy, and are said by Europeans who have overcome their prejudices, to be very sweet and palatable. The taste for dog's flesh is of very early origin. The ancients regarded a young and fat dog as excellent food; and Hippocrates placed it on a footing with mutton and pork. The Romans were fond of sucking-puppies, and sacrificed them to the gods.

Mongolians Are American-Like.

There are a great many points of resemblance between the Mongolian and the American Indian. They extend to personal and even religious observances, notwithstanding the fact that the Mongols have long been converted to Lamaism, one of the most exacting and intolerant of religions.

Georges Strong Enough to Win With One Blow

By JAMES J. CORBET.
(Former world's heavyweight champion. Written expressly for the International News Service. Copyright, 1921 by the I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, June 10.—Some people who have been watching Georges Carpentier in his workouts at Manhasset are picking him to lose to Jack Dempsey on what he has shown with curious visitors in his camp.

Why this should be the case I cannot understand, because from many talks with him and from what his record shows, it is a certainty that he can box and that he possesses a punch heavy enough to defeat any man living if he lands the right spot.

I am going to be among those present at Manhasset today. I am eager to see the Frenchman in action and I hope he unlimbers some of his best punches. But I doubt that he will.

As a matter of fact, Carpentier isn't showing anything. It is his prerogative to do his real work in private and so far he has taken absolute advantage of it.

All the accounts I have read from Manhasset have contained hints that Georges bears the earmarks of a boxer who has a lot to learn. But wait. A really clever boxer could easily fool spectators. He can show as much or as little as he cares to. He can appear slow footed, conceal his best punches and make himself appear to be a "sucker" for a left or a right hand, or both for that matter.

I have not yet seen Carpentier in a real workout but I am convinced that any boxer who was good enough to stand off Joe Jeanette as far back as 1914, must have something for in these days Joe was a fine boxer and a strong hitter.

Dempsey is much different than Carpentier. Essentially he is a fighter and no matter when he gets into action he boxes as he fights. At his Atlantic City camp he has shown practically every punch that is a favorite with him because it is natural for him to do just that.

And he isn't trying to conceal anything. He believes he can defeat Carpentier and he is going into the ring July 2 to accomplish his purpose as quickly as possible. But even Carpentier should be studying Dempsey in action, would not have a positive line on how the champion might be expected to meet his (Carpentier's) attack in a real fight. No man can be positive regarding what to expect from an opponent. Every fighter must make his fight as it comes to him or as he sees openings for offenses. All the advice in the world is useless before a battle actually gets underway.

Her Choice of Letters.

When mother bought Laura and Harriet a box of animal crackers, to be equally divided, Laura said: "I tell you what we'll do; we'll choose letters." "How's that?" asked Harriet. "I'll choose some letters and you choose some letters and then we'll take the animals whose names begin with those letters." Quick as a flash Harriet exclaimed: "I'll take 'L.'" Suspicious, Laura inquired: "Why are you so anxious for that letter?" "Because," replied Harriet, "then I'll get all the 'lphants'."

Timmie Lost No Time

By PERCY L. CROSBY

PRINCESS SATURDAY.

Burton George, one of the best known directors in the screen world, was selected to direct one of the biggest features of the year, "The Valley of Doubt", a new all-star Selznick picture, which begins a one day engagement at the Princess Theatre Saturday.

He was chosen to direct this production because of his wide experience in handling big productions. He has been associated with many of the large companies and has a record of 98 pictures to his credit. Among the stars he has directed are: Louise Huff, Viola Dana, Shirley Mason, Olga Petrova, Charlotte Walker, Violet Palmer and others.

He has gained his greatest distinction through his direction of all star productions and says he particularly enjoyed the direction of "The Valley of Doubt" because it is a story of unusual strength and virility. It is a story of the great out-doors with real people in human situations, rather than types moving about in a sitting of artificial social surroundings.

STUNNING DANCE
SCENE IN "THE HOPE"

(Delite Today.)

A "long shot" of 110 feet on an indoor setting was made in filming the military ball in "The Hope" the big spectacular melodrama at the Metro Studios in Hollywood. The picture is to be seen at the Delite Theatre today. The action of the long shot really takes place in the camera's foreground an alcove shut off from the dance floor by a hand-carved screen of East Indian hardwood. Through the screen's fantastic tracery the camera eyes a long vista where dancers whirl and jazz past and beyond a sparkling, slender column of water.

Three blistering sun-ray arc lights and many powerful spots play on the dance floor, in addition to more than a score of Cooper-Hewitt banks. Besides Jack Mulhall, Marguerite de la Motte, Ruth Stonehouse, Frank Elliott, and the rest of "The Hope's" cast, at least 125 persons took part in the military ball under the direction of Herbert Blache. Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton wrote "The Hope."

SOLVED AT LAST

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 10.—Sir James Cantlie, at a lecture in West Hampstead Town Hall, said that in the First Book of Samuel we learned that rats carried the plague. Yet until quite recent times scientists did not know that fact.

Why does a woman scream when she sees a rat? Because she knows instinctively it carries disease. Women had that instinct of abhorrence from God. Man, the silly ass, would pick up a rat—the fleas flying from it would bite him. The man would then go home, taking the plague into his own household. "Therefore," Sir James added, "I would advise the women to go on screaming."

THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

Powerful indeed is the empire of habit—
Cicubius Syrus.STATION ETIQUETTE

TO SAY that the well-bred person is on time when he takes a train might be unfair. But it is a fact the well-bred person shows his consideration for others in his actions, and the person who comes into the station behind time, pushes by other people, runs into them with his traveling bag, summons a porter curtly and tries to push ahead of others at the ticket window, is acting in an inconsiderate manner. He is also making himself conspicuous, and the well-bred person does not attract undue attention to himself in public places.

It is nothing to be ashamed of if one has traveled but little, and some excellent folk have perhaps never been in a railroad train more than once or twice in their lives. Still it is but natural that we should all want to appear to be at ease when we travel, and not to proclaim by our manners that we have never been about before. Your conduct in the railroad station should therefore be composed and unruffled. If you have time to idle away before train time it is quite all right to go to the newsstand and purchase a paper or magazine and read it; but there is no reason why you should have to invest in chewing gum, salted nuts and gum drops; weigh yourself, and have your fortune told by one of the penny-in-the-slot machines, pace back and forth in the station, delve in your traveling bag to see whether you remembered to bring your slippers, or ask the station attendants innumerable unnecessary questions about why the train is late. If you have been unable to get any lunch and really feel the need of nourishment, then you may be excused for eating a little milk chocolate while you wait, but remember that well-bred people do not eat in any public places save restaurants and other places, especially intended for that.

And the consensus of opinion seems to be that the very well-bred people do not kiss in the station. At any rate, they do it without attracting any undue attention, and save such signs of devotion till they have reached home. To be sure, when we travel in continental Europe we see much kissing and embracing in the railroad stations—fathers embracing their grown sons and brothers with tears in their eyes kissing brothers, though they may not have been separated for many weeks. But we Anglo-Saxons avoid such over demonstrativeness and the American way as well as the British way is to reveal as little as possible of our own personal affairs to others in the railway station. We can excuse the woman who weeps audibly in the station when she sees her dear ones departing if she is old or very much overwrought, but the young woman should do her utmost to avoid such demonstration of her feelings in the station. It makes it very much harder for those who leave her, and sometimes is painfully embarrassing.

New York Letterby

NEW YORK, May 9.—Westward admit the complete wrongness of all hol once again. The emigrant train of the twentieth century will leave New York in two months. It's the first to start for the "great, wide west" in this generation, and in spite of the fact that the caravan will be made up of 128 motor cars, it is after all pretty much the same thing as the trains of prairie schooners which crept across the continent half a century ago. The "emigrants," the 128 families who will go in the motor cars, are all native Americans. They are not seeking freedom from oppression nor religious liberty nor a chance to earn a living. Their object is wholly to get away from this biggest city to rear their children where there is room and air and ground. The plan grew out of vacation tours taken by two of the men and their families. After the idea was born, they wrote various commercial clubs and state officials of the west, and partly because the governor of Idaho was the first to answer their letters, it is Idaho for which the caravan will be bound. Five thousand acres of land have been taken there.

It was a gala day at the Metropolitan Opera House the other day when Enrico Caruso surprised the house staff by dropping in for a call, the first time he has been able to step into his beloved Opera House since he was first taken ill. Very few artists were about, most of them having returned to Europe for the summer, but those there hastily organized an enthusiastic reception committee and were valuable in their delight at the return to health of the master singer. Caruso is assured now that after a summer in Italy, he will be able to return to the stage in the fall.

The American National Council has been organized to co-ordinate the Americanization activities of more than a score of nationally known patriotic and civic educational societies. The first meeting was held the other day when Dr. David Jayne Hill was elected president, and Charles D. Orth, of the National Security League; Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion; and Albert E. Shields, director of the Inter-Racial Council, were named vice-presidents. Over twenty societies are represented in the new Council. One of the features of the work will concern the efforts of the public schools toward better citizenship and Americanization.

The ex-teacher didn't approve of such informality in working manners. But the request to desist was either ignored or forgotten. Then the teaching method came to the fore. "Now," she said pleasantly, "since you seem to enjoy singing so much, perhaps you'd like to stand up and sing to all of us."

Start the Day Right

When you wake up in the morning, let your first thought be one of appreciation for another chance—another day means more opportunity. Then realize that you have a wonderful machine—your body—to use during the day. Think of that machine and what you can do to put it in the pink of condition. It should be thoroughly rested without an ache or pain of any kind. It should be quiet in the night, but if you find it needs adjustment here, or lubricating there, then your first duty is to attend to those needs.

Start the Night Right

As you retire at night your thoughts should be directed toward the coming of another day. You should compose yourself for rest and reconstruction which will fit you for the struggle of the next day. Look well to your physical condition; for upon that depends the extent of your accomplishment from day to day. Sound and restful sleep—an absolute necessity in order to keep well and strong.

THE KIDNEYS

Improper condition, or action, of the kidneys causes much loss of sleep, and the gastronomic powers of the body, thus making it impossible to secure the rest needed to make one fit for the day's activities. The kidneys and bladder being the excretory system, and the work of the CELLS excreting these wastes is to eliminate the waste matter or produce "toxins" from cell activity.
